With just 28 days left before the presidential elections, the McCain-Palin campaign released a list of farmers and ranchers, as well as congressmen and former USDA and state officials, who have endorsed their ticket. The list includes 12 state Farm Bureau Presidents and representatives of the livestock, sugar and ethanol industries.

As we've reported over the last few weeks, the Obama-Biden campaign has also released the names of several farmers and industry officials who support their initiatives, including six former presidents of the National Corn Growers Association.

"If you look at the issues that I think are important to agriculture and rural America -- energy, trade, taxes, judges that the next president is likely to appoint, and national security -- John McCain trumps his opponent on every issue," said Charlie Kruse, a fourth-generation farmer from Drexel, MO. who co-chairs the McCain-Palin Farm & Ranch Team National Steering Committee.

Kruse currently serves as President of the Missouri Farm Bureau, although the campaign points out that members of the National Steering Committee are endorsing as private citizens and are not acting in an official capacity for their respective organizations.
